With an emphasis on big love and big vibes, 10:32 (ten-thirty two) is a future-soul collective from London featuring Lyle Barton, Radovan Brtko and Bridget Walsh. 10:32 debuted at the Isle of Wight Festival in 2018 and have since toured internationally with shows, festivals, sessions and broadcasts in the UK, Aotearoa (New Zealand), Australia and the USA. For fans of Hiatus Kaiyote, D'Angelo, Erykah Badu, Radiohead, James Blake, Thundercat and more, 10:32 takes you through sonic galaxies of jazz, hiphop, soul, breakbeat, house and RnB, all with a sprinkling of analogue synths, wavy vocals and chakra-shaking breakdowns.

10:32's most recent single "Coffee Shop Girl" was awarded funding from New Zealand's national broadcasting arm, NZ on Air and featured for a number of months on two of Apple Music's editorial playlists: "Jazz Scene UK" and "New Latitudes". Coffee Shop Girl premiered on Jazz FM and was released on the band's third tour of Aotearoa, supported by the NZ Music Commission. The tune was co-produced with Clinton McCreery (Louie Vega, Mark de Clive-Lowe) and boasts an adorable animated music video.

10:32's 2021 EP "Aequus Animus" was recorded at London's Total Refreshment Centre and produced by Hackney-based Melbourne artist, Lewis Moody (Cherise, 30/70, Nubian Twist). A follow up single version of "Seedling" was released for Earth Day with award-winning artist, Troy Kingi. Seedling was a featured track on NZ on Air's compilation for NZ Music Month, and Aequus Animus was a top Bandcamp pick by Jazz FM. 10:32 also opened for Aotearoa's hugely successful band, SIX60, at their sold out London show in 2022. Other previous shows and broadcasts include Ronnie Scott's, RNZ (Radio New Zealand), The Tuning Fork (NZ), Electric Brixton, NZ's National Jazz Festival and Love Supreme Festival's Supreme Standards.

Bridget is a warm and whimsical vocalist originally from Aotearoa, who has been touring with UK bands since 2013, with a résumé that includes Glastonbury, Boomtown, Latitude, Subsonic and the Edinburgh Fringe. Lyle is an air-bending, face-melting pianist and synth wizard, who plays with artists including Emma-Jean Thackray, Nubya Garcia and Nala Sinephro. Rado is a highly sought after drummer, producer, DJ and good-vibe-bringer, originally from Slovakia where he started touring in his early teens. 10:32 is all about the magic that comes from making art with your best mates, cooking up unpretentious tunes to help bring you home.
