

10:32

Led by playful and genre-expansive artist Bridget Walsh, 10:32 (ten-thirty two) is a band that orbits the intersection of jazz, hiphop, soul and electronic music. Joined by Lyle Barton, Radovan Brtko and Isobella Burnham, 10:32 melds heavy beats with sonic textures, filthy bass with wavy vocals, jazz harmony with hope and revolution. For fans of Hiatus Kaiyote, D'Angelo, Radiohead, James Blake, Thundercat and more, 10:32 is a musical embrace, a warm hug, a seat at the family table. Reaching for the lasers or laying in the sun, 10:32 takes you by the hand and helps you remember how to fly.

"A beautiful, jazzy, soulful journey with the lushest vocals"
- Tony Minvielle, Jazz FM

10:32 debuted at the Isle of Wight Festival in 2018 and have since toured internationally with shows, festivals, sessions and broadcasts around the UK, Aotearoa (New Zealand), Australia and the USA. The band have been funded by Aotearoa public broadcaster, NZ on Air, and have featured on multiple Apple Music editorial playlists including Jazz Scene UK, Aotearoa All Day and New Latitudes. 10:32's music has premiered and featured on radio stations worldwide, including Jazz FM and Radio New Zealand, and the band's last two tours of New Zealand were supported by the NZ Music Commission.

10:32 have collaborated with artists and producers around the world including Troy Kingi, Mazbou Q (The Rap Scientist), Clinton McCreery (Louie Vega, Mark de Clive-Lowe) and Lewis Moody (Cherise, Nubian Twist). They opened for hugely successful Aotearoa band SIX60 in London, and other recent shows include Ronnie Scott's, Gilles Peterson's We Out Here Festival, The Tuning Fork (NZ), Electric Brixton, NZ's National Jazz Festival, Love Supreme Festival's Supreme Standards and a sold-out show at PizzaExpress Live jazz club.

Bridget is a warm and whimsical vocalist originally from Aotearoa, who has been touring with UK bands since 2013, with a résumé that includes Glastonbury, Boomtown, Latitude, Subsonic and the Edinburgh Fringe. Lyle is an air-bending pianist and synth wizard, who plays with artists including Nubya Garcia, Nala Sinephro and Emma-Jean Thackray. Rado is a highly prized drummer, producer and DJ originally from Slovakia, who's been touring since his teens. Izzy is a Barbadian-grown bassist, vocalist and composer whose artist credits include Tom Misch, Jorja Smith and Sampa The Great.
