

10:32

With an emphasis on love, light and big vibes, 10:32 (yes, like the time) is a future-soul collective from London featuring Lyle Barton, Radovan Brtko and Bridget Walsh. 10:32 debuted at the Isle of Wight Festival in 2018 and have since toured internationally with sessions, shows, broadcasts and festivals in the UK, Aotearoa (New Zealand), Australia and the USA. For fans of artists including Hiatus Kaiyote, D'Angelo, Erykah Badu, Thundercat and more, 10:32's magic-making groove party takes you on a tasty adventure through galaxies of jazz, hiphop, breakbeat, house and RnB, with a celestial sprinkling of analogue synths, wavy vocals, booty-shaking grooves and chakra-shaking breakdowns.

10:32's 2021 EP "Aequus Animus" was recorded at London's Total Refreshment Centre and produced by Hackney-based Melbourne artist, Lewis Moody (ZFEX, 30/70). A follow up single version of "Seedling" was released for Earth Day with award-winning Aotearoa artist, Troy Kingi. "Seedling" was a featured track on NZ on Air's compilation for NZ Music Month 2021, and Aequus Animus was a top Bandcamp pick by Jazz FM the same month. With previous shows and broadcasts including RNZ, Electric Brixton, NZ's National Jazz Festival and Ronnie Scott's, 2022 has seen the band recalibrate and renew their vision post-pandemic with a host of new tunes concocted on a farm in rural Oxfordshire. The band has been awarded funding and support from New Zealand's national broadcasting arm, NZ on Air for their upcoming single "Coffee Shop Girl" in early 2023 and recently opened for Aotearoa's hugely successful band, SIX60 at their sold out London show.

Bridget is a warm and whimsical vocalist originally from Aotearoa, who has been touring with UK bands since 2013, with a résumé that includes Glastonbury, Boomtown, Latitude, Subsonic and the Edinburgh Fringe. Lyle is an air-bending, face-melting pianist and synth wizard, who plays with artists including Emma-Jean Thackray, Golden Mean and Nala Sinephro. Radovan is a highly sought after drummer, producer, DJ and good-vibe-bringer, originally from Slovakia where he started touring in his early teens. 10:32 embodies the alchemy and magic of making art with your best mates, creating unpretentious music and sonic wizardry to bring you home.
